Mahmoud Darwish was a Palestinian poet and author who was regarded as the Palestinian national poet. He won numerous awards for his works. Darwish used Palestine as a metaphor for the loss of Eden, birth and resurrection, and the anguish of dispossession and exile. He has been described as incarnating and reflecting "the tradition of the political poet in Islam, the man of action whose action is poetry." He also served as an editor for several literary magazines in Israel.

Palestinian Mahmoud Darwish was born in al-Birweh in Galilee, a village that was occupied and later razed by the Israeli army. Because they had missed the official Israeli census, Darwish and his family were considered "internal refugees" or "present-absent aliens." Darwish lived for many years in exile in Beirut and Paris.

Mahmoud Darwish was born on March 13, 1941, in Al Birweh, Palestine, into a land-owning Sunni Muslim family. During the establishment of the State of Israel in 1948, his village was destroyed and his family fled to Lebanon. They returned the following year, secretly re-entering Israel.

Mahmoud Darwish was a Palestinian poet and author who won numerous awards for his literary output and was regarded as the Palestinian national poet. In his work, Palestine became a metaphor for the loss of Eden, birth and resurrection, and the anguish of dispossession and exile.

Poet Mahmoud Darwish is the author of many collections of poetry and was considered Palestine’s most eminent poet.

With poems from the 1960s such as this, Mahmoud Darwish, who has died in a Texas hospital aged 67 of complications following open-heart surgery, did as much as anyone to forge a Palestinian...

Mahmoud Darwish was the Palestinian national poet. One of the greatest poets of the last half century, his work evokes the loss of his homeland and is suffused with the pain of dispossession and exile.

A person can only be born in one place. However, he may die several times elsewhere: in the exiles and prisons, and in a homeland transformed by the occupation and oppression into a nightmare.
A driven, well rounded professional with a passion for optimization, lean operations/manufacturing and process improvement. By utilizing my technical skills and goals, I have been able to help...

Mahmoud Darwish - Business Process Manager - Owens & Minor

The Mahmoud Darwish Museum is an exquisite edifice befitting the commemoration of the poet and his achievements. It seeks to safeguard Darwish's cultural, literary and intellectual legacy, and promote his noble values: the love he had for his homeland, deep respect for human dignity, and his utter veneration of life.

Mahmoud Darwish - Modern Poetry in Translation

Mahmoud Darwish (13 March 1941 – 9 August 2008 / Palestinian)

Mahmoud Darwish Poems - Poems of Mahmoud Darwish - Poem Hunter

Mahmoud Darwish – Wikipédia, a enciclopédia livre

Talk: Mahmoud Darwish - Wikipedia